Association for the Development of Education and Research with universities, research centers, and companies of Aquitaine. ADERA was created in 1967. It develops the relations between the Higher Education (Universities, Major Schools) and companies in the following domains: research, technology transfer, implementation of public devices of support for innovation and for R&D.

Created in 1924 to enable France to play a key role in the great oil and gas adventure, TotalEnergies has always been driven by an authentic pioneering spirit. It has discovered some of the most productive fields in the world. Its refineries have created increasingly sophisticated products and its extensive distribution network has rolled out an ever-expanding range of services.
